Does everyone know someone who plants zucchini-and has way more produce than they will ever be able to use-sure you do!

Have you heard of “zoodles”? Zoodles are “noodles” made from a zucchini. You can do so many things with them.

If you want to, you can buy a special rotatory kitchen appliance to do the job or just use a potato peeler or a julienne peeler and will be able to accomplish the desired effect.

One zucchini will make quit a lot of zoodles, try to not use the seeds-but if a few get in the mix it won't hurt anything.

Before cooking let zoodles relax on paper towels for a few minutes to help remove some of the moisture. Add a bit of olive oil to a skillet, add in the zoodles and stir fry for a few minutes-sprinkle with parm cheese and garlic salt just before serving.

Or—you can actually make them into spaghetti, or chicken fettuccini or anything else you would normally use pasta for.

GIVE THIS A TRY
